Katy Grant

What happens when you have success, stability, and a life that checks every box—but something still feels missing? Katy Grant was a leader in education reform, transforming learning for incarcerated students as the Director of Education for the Maine State Department of Corrections. She was deeply respected and beloved by the students she empowered.

Then, she took a leap. Leaving behind her career, she traveled the world—seeking deeper purpose, cultural immersion, and reinvention. Now based in Europe, Katy shares the lessons of courage, transformation, and purpose, helping others uncover their own path—whether through education, leadership, or personal growth. Her beautiful children's book captures the heart of her journey: embracing the unknown, seeking inspiration, and finding meaning in unexpected places.
